21. Most tournaments will allow you to update your weight up until a deadline they have set before their tournament (usually the day or night before their event, but check each tournament's criteria to know their specific deadline). Most will want your registered weight to be within two pounds of the actual weight you are at weigh-in time the day of the tournament. If you need to get back into your registration to update your weight at all before the tournament, you can do so by clicking the invoice link in your confirmation email.
